Welcome to ISM9

Welcome to the 9th International Symposium on Metallomics (ISM9), held from June 17th to 21st, 2024, at the iconic Bush House in the heart of London, overlooking the majestic Thames River. We are thrilled to invite you to be a part of this exceptional event as a sponsor, where you will benefit from unique opportunities and contribute to fostering cross discipline and sector collaborations as well as the critical support of young emerging researchers in the field of Metallomics.

ISM9 revolves around the theme of sustainability, and we are dedicated to creating an event that reduces our environmental impact throughout the conference. From sustainable registration materials to locally sourced cuisine, and giving back to notable causes, we aim to make a sustainable impact in every aspect. But sustainability goes beyond environmental concerns– it also encompasses the sustainable impact of our research. This conference will explore that very question, urging us to break scientific and cultural silos, engage in meaningful conversations, and work together to form the blueprint of a more sustainable future for scientific research.

By sponsoring ISM9, you will have the opportunity to engage with participants from across the world through workshops, roundtable discussions, seminars, and a powerful event and networking app in a hybrid style conference facilitated by WebEx Events. Additionally, sponsors and exhibitors will connect with their users and prospective customers through various events during the conference, including refreshment breaks, lunch breaks, and of course a smashing social events line up. Moreover, we offer opportunities to support sustainable and (we think!) awesome stylish swag, that will last years after the event and be a constant reminder of your engagement.

Most importantly, your support as a sponsor will be instrumental in facilitating the participation of young researchers, fostering novel scientific collaborations, and advancing the mission of ISM9. Join us in unravelling the power of Metallomics as the Rosetta Stone for scientific discovery, transcending boundaries and promoting effective science. Together, let us make a sustainable impact that resonates far beyond the duration of the conference.

We look forward to welcoming you to ISM9 and to an extraordinary conference experience at the illustrious Bush House in London.

With regards on behalf of the local organising committee,

Dr. Theodora J. Stewart
ISM9 Chair
King's College London, London, UK

Student Sponsorship & Community Outreach

ISM9 is not just about marketing and branding, but also for facilitating new collaborations between different disciplines and sectors in a field that has wide reaching implications in human and environmental health. With your involvement, we can provide financial support to those who otherwise would be unable to participate and benefit from ISM9 and its fruitful scientific collaborations after the event, reward the hard work of emerging researchers in the field, and facilitate new and creative ways for effective scientific engagement and communication.

Student Travel & Accomodation Fund (unlimited)

This fund is specifically aimed to include students who may be financially unable to attend ISM9. In a world that is becoming increasing virtual, there is a recognition that nothing will ever replace face to face interactions that are essential for establishing strong collaborations and making those new connections that lead to unexpected opportunities. Your donation, whatever the amount, will go towards subsidising travel and accommodation for those students unable to afford the cost so that they too can benefit from an incredible week of interactions and new horizons. A call will be sent with particular focus on encouraging under-represented communities and women in science.

Metallomics Future Fund (unlimited)

The seeds of breakthrough scientific discovery often can be traced to that chance encounter over a drink and discussion of a ‘crazy’ rogue idea for a collaboration. Yet often the ability to carry out such experimental work and creatively play with high-risk scientific endeavours is hindered by the lack of funding. With the ‘Metallomics Future Fund’ we want to challenge this business-driven science culture even if in a small way to provide financial support to promote disruptive science and provide the space for creativity and intelligence to play in discovery science. The fund will call for collaborative peer-reviewed proposals (by an international panel) emerging from ISM9 to facilitate cross-lab exchanges and subsidise costs associated with accepted project proposals.

Poster Prizes £250 (6 available)

Awards (first and runner up) will be presented to the top posters from PhD students in each major scientific program category following a panel review during the conference.

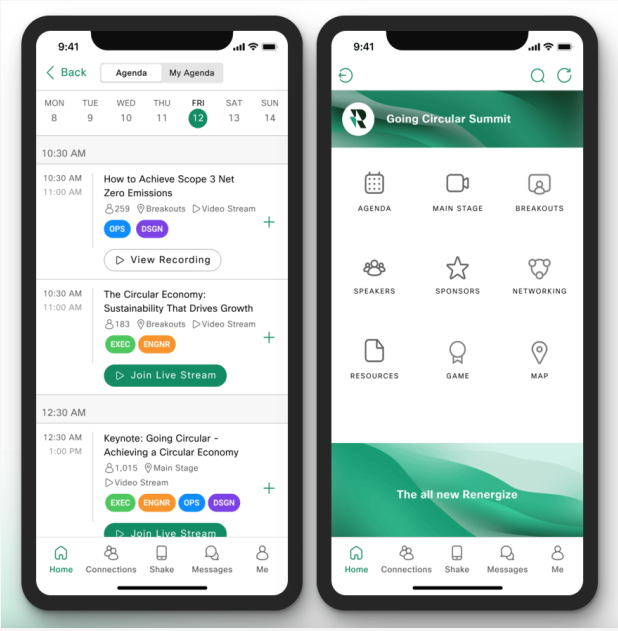
Oral Talk Prizes £500 (6 available)

Awards (first and runner up) will be presented to the top oral presentations from PhD students in each major scientific program category based on panel review during the conference.

Graphic Scribing of Conference £2500 (4 available)

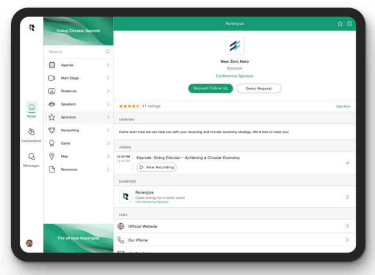
Science is all about unearthing new observations, connecting dots, and visualizing the intangible and there’s no better way to showcase the integration and connectivity that underpins the field of Metallomics better than through transforming abstract content into easy-to-understand engaging images. Your contribution will support live visual scribing of key sessions and roundtable discussions each day available to view both on site and online, providing a graphic story of the new connections and horizons explored and discussed at ISM9. We’ve seen this in conference action before and can definitively vouch that these pictures are worth more than a thousand words!

Webex Event Conference App At A Glance



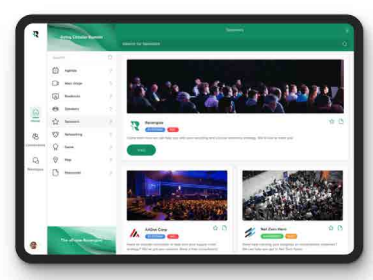
The app will centralize the ISM9 agenda and content in an easy-to-use digital guide. In-person and virtual attendees can access session broadcasts, view resources, and learn about speakers and sponsors all in one place whether on a phone or using a laptop.

As a sponsor you will be equipped with the tools you need to drive leads like lead retrieval, virtual booths, group demos, gamification, banner ads, push notifications, and more.

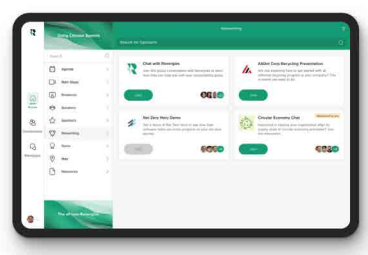


Link out to your websites, display contact information, and attach documents directly in your company profile.

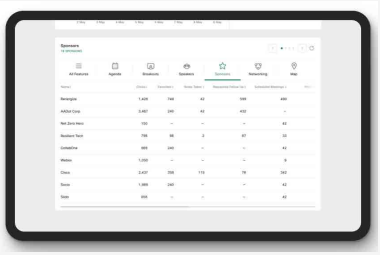
Showcase sponsors and exhibitors through in-app banners, icons, push notifications, and splash screens.



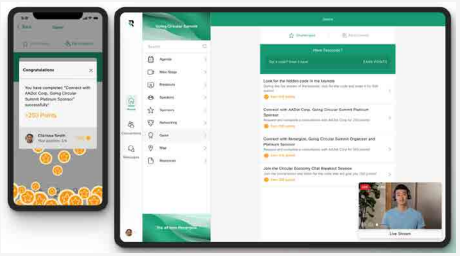
Display an overview of your company by using your designated block that uniquely represents your brand and offerings.



Use your dedicated Video Room that you can staff during the entire event or at designated times to network with attendees, have small group conversations, or lead demos.



Equip yourself with detailed reports to maximize your lead generation opportunities and report back overall success of engagement at the event in real time.



Build anticipation & drive participation through creating challenges that excite attendees and inspire them to interact.
